While at CTI, [REDACTED] recalled receiving one check for around $375.00. She thought she cashed the check.

b6
b7C

As stated previously, [REDACTED] did not graduate from CTI and ended up dropping out of school. [REDACTED] cited [REDACTED]'s leaving as a factor in her decision to drop out of CTI. She also mentioned that she did not like the day care program at CTI and that she was uncomfortable going to downtown Cincinnati on the bus to attend CTI. [REDACTED] further stated that she did not get a lot of benefit out of going to CTI.

b7C

[REDACTED] stated that, once she dropped out of CTI, she did not return to CTI. [REDACTED] stated that she did not apply for a leave of absence when she left CTI. [REDACTED] had no recollection of doing a leave of absence form for CTI.

b6
b7C

After she dropped out of CTI, [REDACTED] began receiving notices saying she was obligated to repay a student loan to the Great Lakes Higher Education Corporation (GLHEC). She recalled that the loan amount was something like $2,000 and accruing interest. [REDACTED] advised that she paid $30.00 per month on the loan for about one and a half to two years. One month, [REDACTED] was unable to pay the entire $30.00 monthly payment. She got into an argument with the representative of the loan company. At that time, [REDACTED] was aware that CTI was under investigation. [REDACTED] stopped making the $30.00 monthly loan payments altogether. [REDACTED] commented that she did not receive an education from CTI and she did not feel it was fair to have to pay for something she did not receive.

b7C

[REDACTED] stated that she now has problems with her credit as a result of the unpaid Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) she received while at CTI. She has not gone back to school, because she knows she would be unable to obtain a student loan. [REDACTED] advised that she has also had income tax refunds that she was due taken by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] commented that she feels she was "ripped off" by CTI.

always telling FITZPATRICK that CTI had to get students who had the motivation and ability to stay in school, rather than the types of individuals who were being regularly recruited by CTI.

[REDACTED] recalled that [REDACTED] was directed by FITZPATRICK to change records pertaining to students at CTI. [REDACTED] commuted with [REDACTED] to CTI's Cleveland location, so he often had the opportunity to talk with her. [REDACTED] remembered [REDACTED] telling him that FITZPATRICK had instructed her to make alterations to CTI's student attendance books to show students in attendance for whom CTI's registrars had no record of the students being in classes. [REDACTED] suspected that the students for whom FITZPATRICK wanted her to show attendance had never attended CTI. [REDACTED] felt FITZPATRICK wanted her to change CTI's records to show attendance for these students so CTI would not have to refund monies collected on the students. [REDACTED] was upset and expressed disbelief that FITZPATRICK would make her alter student attendance records to reflect students attending CTI that she believed had never attended classes at CTI. [REDACTED] recalled that FITZPATRICK directed [REDACTED] to make changes and alterations to CTI's records on more than one occasion.

b7C

[REDACTED] stated that he was present on an occasion when FITZPATRICK directed that records be amended to reflect attendance for students so that CTI could avoid having to refund money. [REDACTED] thought the occurrence took place close to one of the times [REDACTED] had complained to him about FITZPATRICK having her alter records. [REDACTED] recalled that he, [REDACTED] were going through student sign-in sheets for CTI's Cleveland school and comparing them with other attendance records. [REDACTED] discovered records showing attendance for students that were not in class according to the sign-in sheets and other supporting documentation. When they reported the discrepancies to FITZPATRICK, he told them to "straighten it up." [REDACTED] interpreted FITZPATRICK's instruction to mean that they should do what needed to be done to make the records match to show the particular students in attendance at CTI, so CTI would not have to refund monies collected on the students.

[REDACTED] advised that he started "butting heads" with FITZPATRICK over issues related to CTI. When [REDACTED] observed the numerous problems at CTI's Cleveland campus, he suggested that CTI cease recruiting and admitting new students until the problems were corrected. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK laughed at his suggestion.

[REDACTED] advised that the state of Ohio, possibly the SBPSR, questioned why CTI did not have the proper equipment or course of study for its court reporting program. The state of Ohio wanted to shut down the court reporting program at CTI. When FITZPATRICK was told of the state's objections to CTI's program, he said to "brush it under the rug." FITZPATRICK asserted that he would take care of the situation by contacting the boss of the investigator for the state of Ohio. FITZPATRICK claimed that he had a connection with the person who had the second highest authority position with the state board. [REDACTED] stated that he did not hear from the state of Ohio again.

[REDACTED] recalled CTI getting calls from the office of U.S. Senator HOWARD METZENBAUM inquiring about student problems at CTI. FITZPATRICK told [REDACTED] that they would just have to give more money to METZENBAUM's campaign, and that such a donation would solve any problems they were having with METZENBAUM's office. [REDACTED] remembered FITZPATRICK telling him that, "The more money you give these people (politicians), the more likely they'll stay off your back." [REDACTED] thought FITZPATRICK had a meeting with METZENBAUM or representatives from his office.

b7C

[REDACTED] remembered FITZPATRICK talking about U.S. Congressman DONALD E. "BUZ" LUKENS but was not aware of LUKENS doing anything for CTI.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] recalled that a lawsuit was filed against CTI by students at CTI's school in Cincinnati, Ohio. FITZPATRICK said that there was no way the parties suing CTI could win the suit. [REDACTED] remembered FITZPATRICK talking with accrediting organizations and other similar entities trying to get help with the lawsuit against CTI.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] advised that he was fired by FITZPATRICK. FITZPATRICK cited "philosophical differences" between [REDACTED] and himself. [REDACTED] explained that he wanted to slow the growth of CTI's schools and get the problems, such as the aforementioned lawsuit, under control. FITZPATRICK wanted CTI to expand more. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK realized that more students meant more money, and that was his motivation for increased growth by CTI.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] was questioned about FITZPATRICK's moral character. [REDACTED] rated FITZPATRICK's moral character "about a two on a scale of one to ten." [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK did not care at all about the students at CTI. He only cared about the money the students could bring in. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK talked disrespectfully about CTI's students and referred to them as "a bunch of niggers."

[REDACTED] commented that FITZPATRICK's greed was "unbelievable." For each student enrolled at CTI, FITZPATRICK had figured out how much money CTI could collect on that individual. FITZPATRICK would say things like, "If we have 500 students, we will have this much money." [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK was driven by money. [REDACTED] reiterated that it was FITZPATRICK's idea to set up a program whereby bonuses were paid to CTI employees based on numbers of students recruited and enrolled into CTI.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] stated that he had heard FITZPATRICK use the term "whacks" at CTI's Cleveland office. [REDACTED] did not understand what the term "whacks" meant.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] advised that the placement rates for CTI students being able to get jobs were "terrible." [REDACTED] commented that CTI's schools in Middletown and Dayton, Ohio, were the only ones that were "anywhere close to being run right."

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK was not an honest person. [REDACTED] recalled hearing FITZPATRICK lie during telephone calls he was having with WHITESELL and [REDACTED] FITZPATRICK would lie about problems at CTI and tell them that the problems had been straightened out when that was not the case. [REDACTED] advised that FITZPATRICK kept WHITESELL away from CTI's Cleveland campus, so WHITESELL would not know what was going on at that location. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK was "sneaky," and that he used that quality to turn people at CTI against [REDACTED] to get him out of the CTI organization. [REDACTED] informed that FITZPATRICK wanted to bug [REDACTED] phones. [REDACTED] commented that, "If you bucked FITZPATRICK or caught him on anything, you were fired."

b7C

[REDACTED] described WHITESELL's death as "real suspicious." While he had no proof that FITZPATRICK had anything to do with WHITESELL's murder, [REDACTED] commented that he "wouldn't put much past JOHN FITZPATRICK." [REDACTED] termed statements made by FITZPATRICK after WHITESELL's death as inaccurate with regard to the problems at CTI.

While employed at SCB, [redacted] observed numerous practices that were illegal or at least improper. [redacted] stated that [redacted] was responsible for promoting the improprieties at SCB. [redacted] advised that [redacted] was interested in getting as many students enrolled in SCB as possible and did not care about the academic capabilities of the individuals that were recruited. The more students enrolled, the more money SCB made. [redacted] targeted low income individuals, since these people easily qualified for government financial aid. [redacted] told the SCB recruiters to do whatever it took to get students "in the door" at SCB. [redacted] recalled that prospective students were told they would receive around $200 if they signed up to attend SCB, and that they were offered $25 to come to orientation. importance. [REDACTED] commented that, once the students had signed the financial aid papers, [REDACTED] did not really care whether the students actually attended classes at SCB.

[REDACTED] stated that SCB's policy for refunding financial aid funds was illegal. The policy was directed by [REDACTED] advised that, if an SCB student showed up for orientation but never came back, SCB kept 25 percent of the financial aid money collected on the student. If a student came to one day of classes and never returned, SCB kept 50 percent of the student's financial aid money. If a student stayed for one week of classes and came for one day into the following week, SCB kept 100 percent of the financial aid money. [REDACTED] represented that the foregoing procedures had been approved by officials administering the Pell Grant, Ohio Instructional Grant, and other financial aid programs. [REDACTED] had occasion to talk with regulators for the financial aid programs and was informed that [REDACTED]'s refund procedures were not proper and had not been approved by the proper authorities.

b7C

[REDACTED] advised that, because of the large number of students at SCB, he would often do preliminary paperwork to obtain financial aid for students who were not yet attending classes at SCB. [REDACTED] stated that a lot of these students would never show up for school at SCB. [REDACTED] would go ahead and negotiate the students' financial aid checks anyway and would not refund the money when it became clear that the students were not going to attend classes at SCB. [REDACTED] indicated that [REDACTED] had SCB take financial aid funds for a lot of students that did not even show up for orientation.

[REDACTED] informed that from, time to time, SCB would be audited by regulatory officials. The auditors would give [REDACTED] notice as to when they would be coming. Prior to the audits, [REDACTED] would have the bookkeepers at SCB go through the books and records to match financial aid draws with SCB students. In many cases, the records would show that financial aid funds had been drawn on students that were not in class at SCB. [REDACTED] directed the people working on the records to create new records to show attendance for periods that the students were not actually in school. The creation of these false records was necessary to justify the financial aid monies collected by SCB and to avoid having to make refunds of the funds. [REDACTED] recalled [REDACTED] telling them to "do whatever it would take to pass the audit." [REDACTED] informed that [REDACTED] helped with the creation of the false records at SCB. He stated that [REDACTED] was [REDACTED]'s lover for awhile.

[REDACTED] remembered a regulatory organization conducting a major audit of the books and records of SCB. [REDACTED] recalled that this audit was the last audit before he left his employment at SCB. [REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] knew the audit would be trouble for him, because the books and records of SCB were in such bad shape. Around two to three weeks prior to the audit, [REDACTED] had several SCB employees get together at one of SCB's campuses to work on the books and records. Included in the effort were SCB's bookkeepers and the directors of education for CTI's various schools. The purpose of the sessions was to make the SCB records match with the draws of financial aid funds taken by SCB. [REDACTED] recalled that the books and records for three of SCB's campuses, including Middletown, were so bad that a complete new set of books had to be created. The new records included student attendance records. [REDACTED] stated that most of the new records that were created were false to justify the retention of financial aid monies that should not have been kept by SCB. [REDACTED] recalled that the bookkeepers would give lists to the SCB directors of education of students who never showed up for class or went for only one day. The directors of education would claim the students attended for requisite periods of time and instruct that attendance records be made to match the draws of financial aid funds for the students. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK participated in the aforementioned effort to create false records to deceive the auditors who would be examining SCB.

[REDACTED] recalled several occasions when he travelled to SCB's Middletown school with lists of students which he provided to FITZPATRICK. When FITZPATRICK gave him back the lists, they contained false attendance for students whose names were listed.

b7C

[REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] was [REDACTED] at SCB's Middletown campus. [REDACTED] often fought with FITZPATRICK about issues related to student attendance. [REDACTED] would tell FITZPATRICK that a particular student had not attended enough days to permit SCB to collect a certain level of financial aid funds on the student. FITZPATRICK would tell [REDACTED] that they were going to draw the money anyway, despite the student's lack of attendance. [REDACTED] informed that [REDACTED] can be reached in Cincinnati, Ohio, at telephone number [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] officer, bookkeepers, and others. [REDACTED] identified [REDACTED] as [REDACTED] at SCB's Middletown campus.

[REDACTED] informed that, in 1982, officials from Washington, D.C. (possibly the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION), and the Ohio Department of Education came to SCB to conduct an audit. The regulators discovered problems including records that did not properly match up. The regulators questioned [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] recalled that they were particularly interested in SCB's procedure for returning financial aid money for students who had dropped out of school. Shortly after [REDACTED] talked to the regulators, he was contacted by the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI). [REDACTED] talked to the FBI about the situation at SCB. [REDACTED] recalled giving some type of statement against [REDACTED].

b7C

[REDACTED] stated that he was fired by [REDACTED] in January, 1983, after [REDACTED] found out that he had talked to the FBI. [REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] terminated all SCB employees who talked to the FBI. [REDACTED] thought [REDACTED] may have had to pay back some money to the government as the result of problems discovered at SCB by the regulators. [REDACTED] believes [REDACTED] is still defrauding the government out of financial aid funds through his operation of SCB.

b7C

[REDACTED] felt that, if the appropriate records were available, he could reconstruct the "paper trail" showing the financial aid fraud perpetrated at SCB. [REDACTED] advised that he is still friends with a number of people who worked at SCB.

[REDACTED] informed that [REDACTED] worked at SCB's HAMILTON campus and could possibly provide helpful information concerning SCB.

students. In some cases, grades that he had given of "F" were changed to passing grades. [REDACTED] stated that he was able to verify that the grades and attendance records were changed, because he made copies of the records before he turned them in. [REDACTED] was not aware of what individuals at SCB were responsible for changing the grades and attendance records, but he suspected that the owner of SCB was encouraging the actions by the employees.

[REDACTED] advised that he was aware of some students who would miss extensive numbers of classes and tests. The students had to attend a requisite number of classes and maintain a minimum grade point average to be eligible to continue collecting financial aid. [REDACTED] stated that grade and attendance records were fabricated to keep the students eligible for financial aid. [REDACTED] commented that money was the motivation for the changing of records, and that SCB regularly kept money that it was not entitled to. [REDACTED] believed that SCB students received a cut of the financial aid money to entice them to come to SCB.

[REDACTED] stated that, while he was working at SCB, he made copies of records and provided them to the FBI. [REDACTED] recalled that the FBI directed him to make copies of grade/attendance cards for some students. Details: For information of receiving offices, on 2/22/95, former U.S. Congressman DONALD E. "BUZ" LUKENS and Ohio businessman JOHN P. FITZPATRICK were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Washington, D.C., on several criminal charges including bribery and conspiracy. FITZPATRICK was also charged with conspiring to defraud the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION (DOE). LUKENS and FITZPATRICK were arrested following the indictments. LUKENS was subsequently tried and convicted of bribery and conspiracy.

FITZPATRICK also went to trial on the charges against him. FITZPATRICK's trial lasted from January through March, 1996. The case ended in a mistrial when the jury could not reach a verdict. In conversations with jurors following FITZPATRICK's trial, it was learned that eleven of the jurors found FITZPATRICK guilty on all counts while one juror held out in favor of FITZPATRICK. Because of the mistrial, it is necessary to retry FITZPATRICK. The retrial is scheduled to begin on 10/15/96.

Due to FITZPATRICK's rapidly approaching trial date, it is requested that receiving offices serve the enclosed subpoenas as quickly as possible. Any problems encountered in serving the subpoenas should be brought to the attention of WFO. Any questions or problems can be directed to SA [REDACTED] [REDACTED], at telephone number (202) 324-6304 or digital pager (202) 519-6351.

Additionally, for the information of the Cincinnati Division, it is possible that SA [REDACTED] may be called as a prosecution witness during the FITZPATRICK trial. Authorization should be obtained for SA [REDACTED] to travel to

[redacted]
Following are my comments re [redacted]'s letter:

① pg. 2 of [redacted]'s letter, first full paragraph-

LUKENS said $15,000 had been received from a JOHN FITZGERALD. LUKENS neglected to mention that ~~the~~ $15,000 was provided in the form of two $7500 checks, one from HENRY WHITESELL. He misstated FITZPATRICK's name. ~~LUKENS~~ With regard to [redacted] several of their statements are contradictory. LUKENS said he went to the meeting alone. [redacted] ultimately admitted he was there. LUKENS said he told [redacted] about receiving the $15,000 from FITZPATRICK. [redacted] said LUKENS did not tell him about the money.

② pg. 2, second full paragraph

We did not say the interview dealt exclusively with LUKENS' House Bank accounts and compliance with election laws. We told him something to the effect that the interview would deal with issues related to his House Bank account, of which sizable payments into the account ought to qualify. Plus, the fact that the $15,000 from FITZPATRICK and WHITESELL was immediately put into his campaign certainly is an election law issue.

③ pg. 2, third full paragraph

Maybe we should have just told him everything we knew, so he could tailor all of his answers to the facts that we gave him!

④ pg. 3, 2nd full paragraph

My recollection is that [] admitted that [] handled some priority matters. [] also stated that a matter in which LUKENS personally made a call would qualify as the highest priority.

b6
b7c

⑤ pg. 3 - 3rd full paragraph

[] wasn't asked whether he recognized LUKENS' voice in the first trial. He likely would have remembered it if he had been asked. He didn't have a "memory transfusion."

Also, you might want to mention that LUKENS', in his interview with us, denied ever using his office or official position to benefit Fitzpatrick or his schools. This would include assigning [] to work on the FITZPATRICK matter. LUKENS himself admitted ^{doing} this in his trial testimony.

Is [] correct that the false statements must significantly obstruct or impede the prosecution? Is an attempt to obstruct or impede, even if unsuccessful, enough to satisfy the provision? If not, the prosecution is being penalized for not allowing LUKENS' false statements to hinder the investigation or prosecution?

b6

⑦ pg. 6 - second full paragraph

[] and the DOE certainly have something to do with LUKENS' conviction on the conspiracy count. Judge Kessler's ruling that the evidence re the 8/90 DOE audit, telephone call to [] etc., was admissible should satisfy the requirement that the obstruction occur with respect to the offense of conviction (the conspiracy).

Call me if you have any questions about my comments.

Thank.

Lukens argues conviction should be overturned

BY KATHERINE RIZZO

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Former U.S. Rep. Donald "Buzz" Lukens of Middletown is trying to convince a three-judge appeals panel that his bribery and conspiracy conviction was the result of a courtroom blunder.

The defense, which won a combination of innocent verdicts and a deadlocked jury at Mr. Lukens' first trial in 1995, contends federal Judge Gladys Kessler should have limited the scope of Mr. Lukens' second trial in March.

Mr. Lukens wanted jurors to hear only about one transaction and nothing about other transactions that the first jury ruled were not bribes.

The trial judge allowed the government to present all of its conspiracy evidence.

In briefs filed with the U.S. Court of Appeals, Mr. Lukens again contends the second jury heard too much evidence.

The Republican, who now lives in Dallas, was given the minimum sentence of 30 months' imprisonment, but Judge Kessler said she considered imprisoning him "a waste of taxpayers' money."

She allowed him to remain free while awaiting the outcome of his appeal.

Mr. Lukens' prosecution was the byproduct of an unrelated scandal involving the former House bank. Investigators examining questionable transactions found two $7,500 deposits in Congress' in-house bank, where overdrafts were penalty-free and lawmakers could write checks in excess of their next several months' pay.

[REDACTED] remembered one occasion when SCB employees stayed all night working on records before some type of audit or examination. [REDACTED] recalled that the people worked in a conference room at SCB's Kettering campus. [REDACTED] observed SCB employees in the conference room using white-out to make changes to records and creating new files. [REDACTED] stated that the door to the conference room was open, so she could see and hear what was going on inside. [REDACTED] stated that she observed plenty of white-out on the conference table. [REDACTED] said that the SCB employees were laughing and cutting up while they were working. [REDACTED] commented that she did not think the people realized the seriousness of what they were doing by changing records. [REDACTED] stated that she refused to participate in the records-changing session, although she was required to be in the building as the [REDACTED] for the school. [REDACTED] believed that what the SCB employees were doing was wrong, and she did not want to get herself in trouble by being a part of it. [REDACTED] was so concerned about the propriety of what the SCB employees were doing in the conference room that she had her husband come and stay with her at the school for several hours, so she would have a witness that she did not do anything illegal. [REDACTED] identified individuals participating in the records-changing session as [REDACTED] a Registrar for SCB, and [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] recalled that some employees from SCB's Middletown, Ohio, campus also came to Kettering to work on the records. [REDACTED] did not recall JOHN FITZPATRICK being at the aforementioned records-changing session. However, [REDACTED] stated that her recollection of the participants was not very good, since the event took place over ten years ago, and that FITZPATRICK conceivably could have been there. [REDACTED] commented that her refusal to participate in changing SCB records triggered some resentment from her subordinate employees who worked all night on the records.

[REDACTED] thought FITZPATRICK worked at SCB's Middletown school. [REDACTED] remembered FITZPATRICK coming to her office one day and talking to her about a prospective lawsuit he intended to file against [REDACTED] and SCB. FITZPATRICK wanted to file a class action suit against [REDACTED]. FITZPATRICK indicated that he was very unhappy, and [REDACTED] believed he may have either been fired or was about to quit his position at SCB. FITZPATRICK wanted to know if other SCB employees were unhappy too. [REDACTED] recalled that FITZPATRICK's concerns related to employees' pay and whether they were dissatisfied with what they were doing. [REDACTED] recalled that FITZPATRICK also implied that he was aware of underhanded activities going on at SCB. FITZPATRICK told [REDACTED] that he had an attorney and wondered whether [REDACTED] knew of anyone who would like to talk to the attorney about problems and/or improprieties at SCB. [REDACTED] agreed to talk to FITZPATRICK's attorney. She later received a call from (First Name Unknown) [REDACTED] asked [REDACTED] numerous questions. [REDACTED] informed that HENRY WHITESELL worked at SCB while she was there. [REDACTED] considered WHITESELL to be a wonderful person. [REDACTED] was aware that WHITESELL later opened his own proprietary school. [REDACTED] believed WHITESELL felt like, "If [REDACTED] can run a school, I can run a school."

Recruiting the highest numbers of students possible became a top priority so SCB could obtain the maximum amount of financial aid funds. [REDACTED] advised that she knew [REDACTED] of SCB, quite well. Initially, [REDACTED] believed [REDACTED] was interested in helping the students at SCB. Later, she came to the conclusion that [REDACTED] was only interested in money.

[REDACTED] recalled that JOHN FITZPATRICK was an instructor at SCB's school in Middletown, Ohio. She thought that Fitzpatrick may have been fired by SCB. [REDACTED] was not aware of any lawsuit filed by Fitzpatrick against SCB.

[redacted] identified JOHN FITZPATRICK as the Director of Education for SCB's campus in Middletown, Ohio. [redacted] recalled that the administration of SCB had difficulties with FITZPATRICK. The troubles involved inconsistencies and discrepancies concerning attendance records of SCB students. [redacted] strongly suspected that FITZPATRICK falsified SCB student attendance records to reflect that students were in school when they were not actually present. [redacted] explained that SCB had a policy whereby the Directors of Education could receive monetary bonuses based on retention of students at their particular schools. have been present in classes although attendance records submitted by FITZPATRICK represented that they were present on the dates in question. [REDACTED] advised that he tracked down students who told him that they had dropped out of school, even though FITZPATRICK's records still reflected the students as attending SCB. [REDACTED] then questioned the instructors of the classes in which the students were allegedly attending according to FITZPATRICK's records. Some of the instructors said that they had the names on their rosters because FITZPATRICK told them the students were in school, even if the students were not attending their classes. [REDACTED] commented that the inconsistencies and discrepancies always benefitted FITZPATRICK and increased his bonuses from SCB. [REDACTED] advised that he confronted FITZPATRICK about instances where he had proven that the student attendance records submitted by FITZPATRICK contained names of individuals who were not in school. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK always responded by blaming someone else and claiming that the discrepancies were someone else's fault. FITZPATRICK often blamed his school's registrar or instructors at the school for the inaccuracies in the records. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK manipulated his school's student attendance records and thereby inflated his bonuses during two or three quarters.

[REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] possibly assisted FITZPATRICK in his records manipulation scheme. [REDACTED] identified [REDACTED] as [REDACTED] for SCB's Middletown school. FITZPATRICK was [REDACTED]'s supervisor. [REDACTED] informed that FITZPATRICK abruptly left SCB to go with HENRY WHITESELL, who had started another proprietary school, Cambridge Technical Institute (CTI). WHITESELL and FITZPATRICK operated CTI in the same area as SCB. [REDACTED] stated that CTI then attempted to recruit students away from SCB. CTI recruiters even tried to recruit SCB's students right off of SCB's premises. [REDACTED] said he heard rumors that FITZPATRICK was encouraging underhanded practices at CTI, such as "tombstone recruiting". [REDACTED] described "tombstone recruiting" as the practice of obtaining Social Security Account Numbers for individuals and using the numbers to draw financial aid monies even though the persons were not in school.

After FITZPATRICK left SCB, he brought a lawsuit against SCB for back bonuses that he alleged he was owed by the school. [REDACTED] stated that he believed the bonuses claimed by FITZPATRICK in the lawsuit were created through the manipulation of SCB's records as described previously. [REDACTED] advised that SCB came to the court proceeding unprepared. As a result, the judge rendered a decision in favor of FITZPATRICK and awarded him monetary damages to be paid by SCB. [REDACTED] commented that he thought the decision made by the judge in favor of FITZPATRICK was wrong.

[REDACTED] advised that he was aware of instances where FITZPATRICK was hostile toward students at SCB. [REDACTED] cited one incident where FITZPATRICK allegedly threatened a student and displayed a weapon during the altercation. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK told the student something to the effect of, "Mr. SMITH & WESSON says it will be done this way".

[REDACTED] stated that [REDACTED] told "horror stories" about FITZPATRICK's behavior. [REDACTED] was aware that FITZPATRICK lived a very lavish lifestyle after he went to CTI. [REDACTED] commented that FITZPATRICK could not have made the kind of money he was making at CTI if CTI had operated legally.

[REDACTED] described FITZPATRICK as a very vindictive person. [REDACTED] stated that FITZPATRICK had a "Napoleonic complex" because of his short physical stature. [REDACTED] commented that there was "not much FITZPATRICK wouldn't do for a dollar or for revenge".

[REDACTED] mentioned WHITESELL's "untimely demise" and indicated that he was suspicious that FITZPATRICK might have had something to do with the murder.

[REDACTED] advised that SCB was investigated by the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI). The investigation was initiated as the result of complaints made to the United States Attorney in Dayton, Ohio, by students and ex-employees of SCB. During the course of the investigation, the FBI seized records from SCB. [REDACTED] stated that, prior to turning over records to the FBI, officials at every SCB campus were asked to check their records for obvious inaccuracies and make the appropriate changes. For example, SCB employees were directed to review student attendance cards and make sure the last days of attendance for students matched with other supporting records. [REDACTED] advised that a lot of errors were discovered during the reviews. [REDACTED] stated that many changes were made to correct the inaccuracies. Numerous SCB employees were involved in reviewing the records and making changes to correct errors that were found. [REDACTED] commented that someone could easily have drawn the inference that SCB was doing something improper by reviewing the records and making changes before turning them over to the FBI. However, [REDACTED] claimed that he was not aware of changes to records being made for any purpose other than to correct inaccuracies. [REDACTED] maintained that records were not changed to cover up instances where SCB had improperly drawn financial aid funds. [REDACTED] commented that, to the best of his knowledge, no one was ever told to do anything other than match up records legitimately.

WFO 46A-WF-179870, SUB UU

Continuation of FD-302 of [REDACTED], On 2/7/96, Page 4 b6 b7C

[REDACTED] stated that he testified before the Grand Jury during the above-stated investigation of SCB.

[redacted] was aware of problems at SCB. She stated that a lot of students came and registered to go to school at SCB, but never showed up for classes. SCB would still process these students' Pell Grants and Supplemental Educational Opportunity identified numerous students who never attended classes, but for whom SCB collected financial aid monies. [redacted] heard that attendance records were created and altered to falsely reflect student attendance to support the receipt of financial aid funds on those students. [redacted] stated that SCB apparently recruited students to enroll by representing that they would get money back from the financial aid grants. She recalled one student saying something to the effect of, "I don't want to go to school; I just want the money." [redacted] also recalled there being controversies involving students who said they never went to classes at SCB, that they had to review all of SCB's records and, whenever they found something that did not match up, a change had to be made to eliminate the discrepancy. [REDACTED] recalled that the SCB registrars would figure out students' drop dates, and her husband would calculate required refunds of financial aid funds. [REDACTED] remembered a number of SCB employees working on the records in an office at SCB's school in Kettering, Ohio. She could not recall whether JOHN FITZPATRICK was among the people working on the records.

[REDACTED] advised that she was dismissed by SCB during January, 1983. [REDACTED] told her that her services were no longer needed. [REDACTED] stated that the real reason she was terminated was because she talked with the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) about problems at SCB. [REDACTED] understood that [REDACTED] ordered that she be fired after he learned that she had spoken with the FBI. [REDACTED] informed that she also expressed her concerns about SCB to a representative of Congress, TOM KINDNESS.

Dear Mr. Jackson:

I wanted to take this opportunity to commend the outstanding work of one of your Agents, [redacted]. The Washington Field Office (WFO) recently completed a major case which resulted in the convictions of former U. S. Congressman Donald E. "Buz" Lukens and Ohio businessman John P. Fitzpatrick for bribery and other offenses. Even though the case was prosecuted in Washington, D. C., the investigation required considerable support from the Cincinnati Division as both Lukens and Fitzpatrick were from Ohio and many of the conspiratorial acts occurred in Ohio. SA [redacted] was the "point man" who conducted a majority of the investigation necessary in Ohio.

b7C

Over the course of the investigation, SA [redacted] handled numerous investigative leads including interviewing witnesses and collecting evidence. SA [redacted] also maintained liaison with a WFO cooperating witness (CW) whose testimony and guidance proved crucial to the case. SA [redacted] established a cordial relationship with the CW which helped keep the CW working with the FBI through some very stressful times. The CW also had several consensually recorded telephone and face-to-face conversations with [redacted] SA [redacted] coordinated these efforts. On one occasion, SA [redacted] located and organized several Cincinnati Agents at approximately 5:00 PM on a Friday afternoon to surveil and support a meeting between the CW and [redacted].

Dear Mr. Jackson:

I wanted to take this opportunity to commend the valuable assistance provided to the Washington Field Office (WFO) by one of your employees, [redacted] WFO recently completed a major case which resulted in the convictions of former U.S. Congressman Donald E. "Buz" Lukens and Ohio businessman John P. Fitzpatrick for bribery and other offenses. Although the case was prosecuted in Washington, D. C., the investigation necessitated several trips to Cincinnati Division territory by WFO Case Agent [redacted] to cover numerous leads. While SA [redacted] was working in Ohio, [redacted] provided invaluable administrative assistance. Her assistance ranged from the coordination of record checks to arranging downtown parking for SA [redacted] when he had investigative leads in downtown Cincinnati. [redacted] also assisted on several occasions by searching for and locating information from closed Cincinnati Division case files from a previous case involving Fitzpatrick. Usually, this information was needed on short notice for pending court proceedings. Additionally, [redacted] provided valuable guidance regarding which Cincinnati Division personnel should be contacted for assistance in various areas such as technical services, ELSUR, criminal checks, and confidential informant files. When Lukens and Fitzpatrick were prosecuted, [redacted] continually sent WFO news clippings from the Cincinnati newspapers, so that WFO could monitor press coverage of the case.

Dear Mr. Jackson:

I wanted to take this opportunity to commend the outstanding work of one of your Agents, [redacted] The Washington Field Office (WFO) recently completed a major case which resulted in the convictions of former U.S. Congressman Donald E. "Buz" Lukens and Ohio businessman John P. Fitzpatrick for bribery and conspiracy to defraud the U.S. Government among other offenses. Prior to WFO's case, the Cincinnati Division of the FBI also conducted an investigation into the activities of Fitzpatrick and SA [redacted] was the Case Agent. As a result, SA [redacted] developed a substantial amount of intelligence about Fitzpatrick, his associates, and their business which was used in WFO's case against Lukens and Fitzpatrick. Several of the witnesses identified through SA [redacted]'s investigation ended up testifying in the trials of Lukens and Fitzpatrick. Needless to say, without the information developed previously by SA [redacted] WFO's case would have been much more difficult.

FORMER U.S. CONGRESSMAN DONALD E. "BUZ" LUKENS

ARMED AND DANGEROUS

Synopsis: Return of Cincinnati case files related to above-captioned matter.

Administrative: Re 4/4/95 airtel from Cincinnati to WFO and numerous other communications between the Cincinnati and WFO divisions.

Package Copy: Being forwarded under separate cover is one box containing Cincinnati case files CI 213A-11 and 213A-CI-58003.

Details: From approximately 1992 through 1997, WFO conducted an extensive investigation into criminal activities involving former U.S. Congressman DONALD E. "BUZ" LUKENS and Ohio businessman JOHN P. FITZPATRICK. LUKENS and FITZPATRICK were ultimately convicted of criminal charges including bribery and conspiracy. The case is currently in the process of being closed.

During the investigation, WFO requested that the Cincinnati Division allow WFO to borrow Cincinnati case files CI 213A-11 and 213A-CI-58003 as those files contained information relevant to WFO's case. The Cincinnati Division provided those case files, and they were received by WFO on 4/6/95. WFO agreed to return the Cincinnati files at the conclusion of the above-captioned case. Re: U.S. v. FITZPATRICK

Dear [REDACTED]

b6
b7C

This letter is in response to your letter of May 12, 1995 and your reply, on April 6, 1995 to our [REDACTED] letter.

It is quite disturbing, and detrimental to any reasonable preparation to defend the case at trial, that the Government keeps finding new boxes for us to peruse. Because you have deliberately kept the charges in the indictment vague, e.g. the the references to unspecified "matters involving CTI," we are required to analyze CTI's entire history of interaction with the Department of Education, the Ohio Department of Education, and other agencies of the Government. To perform this analysis we have searched the room full of documents provided to us and have extracted what we believed to be the relevant records regarding federal educational assistance. We then began to analyze the history of this assistance. This has taken considerable time and great effort.

It is more disturbing yet that the material which has apparently been withheld by the Government is precisely that which was presented to the Grand Jury. Although this may go a long way towards explaining the complete lack of incriminating evidence against John Fitzpatrick in the material we have reviewed, it also means, assuming the withheld material has any relevance to the case, that we must start anew in analyzing the information which we have received.

The documents that we have reviewed do not include much material which was given to the Department of Education, including many sheets of lender and student notifications, and stacks of refund checks. These were referred to in [REDACTED]'s report to the Department of Education, and we believe that the Government has possession of these and is withholding them, despite statements to the contrary in your April 6th letter such as your response to our request number 12. In any event, if these records formed any part of the basis of Ms. [redacted]'s report, and if the prosecution intends to use any part of this report or any summary of this report at trial, we are entitled to examine the underlying records.

b7C

In your response to our [redacted] letter, you take the narrow view that material in the possession of the Government is to include only statements in the possession of the House Bank Task Force or in the FBI offices at Tysons Corner. We assume that you, as an attorney in the Public Integrity Section, are aware of the obligations of the prosecutor's office with respect to material in possession of the Government, but would remind you that your restricted view of what constitutes material in the possession of the Government is improper. As but one example, it appears from the Grand Jury testimony of [redacted] that [redacted]

b6
b7C

[redacted] Should those [redacted] still exist, in their original form, they are clearly exculpatory, yet they do not appear in any of the material we reviewed. Your office has supplied us with the Inspector General's report beginning "On September 19, 1990..." and [redacted]'s brief memorandum of December 5, 1990. It is unlikely that these are the only two documents produced as a result of the multiple interviews with Department of Education IG persons, and we are entitled to copies of the other documents relating to these events.

b3
b6
b7C

You have stated that our request 18 is unclear. Please be advised that we have received information that one employee of the government investigation team has had a personal relationship with a witness in this case. To the extent that the FBI or your office is aware of such a relationship, we demand any and all records relating to it.

b6

In your reply to our request number 20, you state that all checks in the possession of the government have been shown to us. However, there appear to be checks written by CTI to the Department of Education during the period 1988 to 1990 for Pell refunds which are listed in the check vouchers and electronic listings, but copies of which were not provided.

Your denial of our request number 23 is somewhat surprising, in light of Mr. Fitzpatrick's claim that he was trying to get the Government to investigate the fraud. Any statement by Mr. Fitzpatrick to all employees of the FBI or the Department of Justice (including the United States Attorney's Office) would quite clearly fall within Rule 16, and should be discoverable by us. In addition, each such conversation is exculpatory of the defendant. Other than as a claim that the employees of the FBI or the United States Attorney's office are above a legal obligation to give exculpatory evidence at trial, should such evidence be otherwise admissible, it is difficult to discern a reason why their identities should be concealed. As an example, it is our understanding that an Assistant United States Attorney was interviewed for the CNN news broadcast after Mr. Fitzpatrick met with him and his agents. It is customary for Department of Justice personnel to make notes of such meetings, and we are entitled to have copies of those notes. We understand that you may be reluctant to have us speak with such individuals or to have federal prosecutors called as defense witnesses; but we are still entitled to their identities.

Letter to AUSA [redacted]
May 16, 1995

b7C

From your denial of our requests numbers 24 and 25, we take it that none of the former employees of CTI are considered co-conspirators of the defendant, nor will the Government be offering their testimony on that basis. Should the contrary be true, we will object most strongly to any attempted use of such statements. Furthermore, in the course of our investigation, we have uncovered several statements of former CTI employees which were supplied to the Government, all of which are strongly exculpatory of the defendant and not all of which were provided to us in the material we reviewed. Perhaps this material and other material like it is contained in the boxes which have been withheld from our examination. If not, we renew the request.

With respect to your response to our request number 26, we do not have copies of the [redacted] transcript, and request that you make available all testimony from that trial in the possession of the Government.

b7C

With respect to your response to our request number 29, we renew the request. In particular, our investigation has disclosed that [redacted] testified before the Grand Jury in this matter, and we have good cause to believe that her testimony was exculpatory of Mr. Fitzpatrick. In addition, if [redacted] testified, we have cause to believe that her testimony is exculpatory. Unless the Government is prepared to meet its [redacted] obligations fairly, we shall request that the District Court order that all transcripts of witnesses in the Grand Jury be provided to us. The same would apply to our request number 30. We have reviewed the FBI 302's provided in this case, and if these people testified at the Grand Jury in accordance with their FBI interviews, their testimony is without doubt exculpatory.

b6
b7C

With respect to your response to request number 30, it is the defense position that any testimony by any member of former Congressman Lukens' staff during which testimony the witness did not recall John Fitzpatrick or CTI, or in which the witness did recall such persons but did not recall any official act, would be exculpatory. The prosecution in the [redacted] case made the same response, i.e. that none of the testimony was exculpatory, yet the witness's testimony was in fact entirely exculpatory.

b6

For the reasons detailed in our request number 31, we are prepared to file appropriate motions to compel disclosure of the identities of informants. The requirements of Roviaro have been amply met in this case. Evidence such as the box of diskettes and bags of evidence given to the Government cannot be adequately analyzed without knowing the source of the material, supplied, according to the Government's own memoranda, by a "runner" for Henry Whitesell.

Your response to our request number 36 is either inadequate or incorrect, or you did not understand the request. Several persons involved in this case were informed that they were "targets" of the Grand Jury in connection with their testimony. This constitutes a threat of prosecution. We renew our request that you identify the persons to whom threats were made.

Your response to our request number 35 was not responsive. It is no secret that part of the defense in this case will be that Mr. Fitzpatrick was trying to get the Government to investigate the fraud perpetrated by Mr. Whitesell and his confederates. It is therefore of considerable import to the defense whether Whitesell's confederates obtained immunity or favorable treatment from the Government in connection with their activities. This is information of necessity available only to the Government, and we are entitled to its disclosure. To avoid the patent threat in such a notice, the targeted witnesses will tend to say whatever the prosecutor wants, to avoid prosecution. This is especially important in this case because prosecution was declined on the fraud case in 1992, yet reinstated two years later without the acquisition by the Government of any new evidence--indeed the Government has lost evidence which the witnesses went to great lengths to preserve to protect themselves from prosecution, and the witnesses who participated in the events well know that. Thus, Government threats to witnesses through the target mechanism are especially important.

From your response to our request number 43, we take it that the government will offer no evidence regarding Fed. R. Evid. 404 events. Please be advised that we will object to the presentation of any such evidence if offered, because, among other reasons, we have been deprived of the opportunity to investigate and rebut any such allegations.

Please be advised that this reply to your response is not exhaustive, and we have not waived any right to other material which we requested, nor have we consented to any delay or failure to provide the material requested in our original letter. During our last visit to the FBI headquarters, we marked several boxes of checks and other financial documents for copying. Special Agent [REDACTED] expressed his displeasure at the prospect of copying boxes wholesale, and said that the process may take some time. Should the prosecution relent and let us know what the specific charges are against Mr. Fitzpatrick, it is likely that much of the material which we requested (primarily financial information of CTI in the 1988-1989 period) would not be necessary. Otherwise, we will need the requested information promptly. In light of the undisclosed material, we will likely need further access to the material we have already reviewed, and we will certainly need sufficient time to analyze the material and investigate whatever facts or circumstances may be garnered from it.

The Government's responses to our motions are due on May 22, 1995. We would hope that by that time you would reconsider your responses to our discovery letter and provide the requested information. Please be advised that, at the scheduled hearing on those motions, and particularly in light of whatever may be disclosed by the documents the Government has withheld, we may request further time to prepare for trial.

[REDACTED] recalled a constituent of LUKENS named JOHN FITZPATRICK. [REDACTED] remembered FITZPATRICK coming into LUKENS' Middletown office on one occasion. She thought FITZPATRICK might have come into the office to leave a message to have LUKENS call him. [REDACTED] recalled that FITZPATRICK was supposed to be a businessman, but that she was surprised at his appearance. [REDACTED] described FITZPATRICK as having an unkempt beard and a shabby appearance. Additionally, FITZPATRICK did not act like a businessman. [REDACTED] stated that she was not impressed by FITZPATRICK.

[REDACTED] thought FITZPATRICK may have called LUKENS' office a couple of times, or that someone may have called on FITZPATRICK's behalf. [REDACTED] recalled that FITZPATRICK wanted to talk to LUKENS. [REDACTED] advised that she called [REDACTED] in Washington, D.C., and left messages for LUKENS to call FITZPATRICK. [REDACTED] thought the calls between LUKENS and FITZPATRICK possibly related to a trip LUKENS was organizing to the Honduras.

b7C

[REDACTED] was not aware of any financial relationship between LUKENS and FITZPATRICK. [REDACTED] did not recall LUKENS' office doing anything for FITZPATRICK. [REDACTED] advised that, if she had any contact with an agency on FITZPATRICK's behalf, there would be a file regarding the situation. If the matter was not ongoing when BOEHNER replaced LUKENS, the file would have been destroyed. [REDACTED] checked the appropriate records and determined that there was no file concerning FITZPATRICK in BOEHNER's Hamilton office. [REDACTED] could not recall anything else about FITZPATRICK besides the above-stated visit and telephone calls.

[REDACTED] was asked about LUKENS campaign for re-election in 1990. [REDACTED] stated that some people stuck by LUKENS because they liked the way he voted on issues. [REDACTED] stated that she had no knowledge about money or funding issues pertaining to LUKENS' 1990 re-election campaign.

[REDACTED] recalled that D.E. LUKENS borrowed money and bought the interests in the family farm that were held by his sisters. [REDACTED] stated that, to help their financial situation, D.E. LUKENS spent a large portion of his time away from home trying to earn money as a consultant. She advised that LUKENS was paid for consulting work on campaigns and for speaking engagements. [REDACTED] commented that outside work was permissible for a State Senator at that time. [REDACTED] also advised that D.E. LUKENS frequently borrowed money from friends to help his financial situation.

[REDACTED] stated that D.E. LUKENS was not in any trouble when he left congress in 1970. When D.E. Kindness Inquires Of Boehner What About Buz Loan?

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Kindness has called on a Republican congressional opponent John Boehner to disclose details of personal loans Boehner made to U.S. Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio, several years ago.

Last February, the Dayton Daily News reported that while he was a state senator, Lukens regularly borrowed money from fellow legislators and that Boehner had loaned him a total of $2,000.

Both Kindness and Boehner, a state representative from West Chester, are seeking the GOP nomination for Ohio's 8th congressional district seat, a post now held by Lukens.

Kindness said Tuesday the loans from Boehner weren't reported on Boehner's financial disclosure reports for that time period and that no amended reports have been filed to reflect the loans.

"The whole purpose of financial disclosure laws and rules for politicians is to inform the voters about who might have a financial influence over whom," Kindness said. "Was John Boehner attempting to hide his financial relationship with Buz Lukens?"

Boehner defended the loan and said he simply forgot to list it on his financial disclosure report.

"Since then, I forgave the loan," he added.

Boehner said Lukens first approached him for a loan in March of 1983. He said Lukens had been undergoing chemotherapy for cancer and had blamed his inability to raise money on his health problems.

Lukens "was in horrible medical shape, and I felt sorry for the guy and wanted to try to help him out," Boehner said. "I think it's just a lot of noise about nothing. I try to help out a human being, and the loans are forgiven."

Asked if he planned to file an amended report that reflects the loan, Boehner said he doesn't see "any need to look at it any more."

Lukens hasn't announced whether he intends to seek reelection, but will file nominating petitions by tomorrow's deadline to keep his options open.

The congressman was convicted last May on a misdemeanor charge of contributing to the unruliness of a minor after a 16-year-old Columbus girl alleged she had had sexual relations with him. Lukens has appealed the conviction.

Dear [redacted]

I am Louis Henry Whitesell's [redacted] I have been talking recently with [redacted] concerning the bribery trials of Representative Lukens and John Fitzpatrick. Jeff gave me your address and I hope you do not mind my writing to you. I want you to know that I and the rest of the [redacted] family, particularly my mother and Henry's other two children, deeply appreciate your continuing efforts to gather evidence and prosecute John Fitzpatrick. I hope that he will be convicted of bribery and also for his role in the scheme to defraud the Federal Government of Pell Grant funds. We are especially concerned, of course, that he be indicted and convicted for conspiring to have my brother murdered. There has never been any doubt in our minds but that Fitzpatrick was the primary agent in Henry's death. If you can discover any evidence that will enable your agency to pursue that charge, we will be able to resolve some of our anger, frustration, and grief and we will be forever grateful to you.

You might also be alert for any evidence that would implicate Henry's widow [redacted] (I believe she has remarried) in the murder conspiracy. She profited directly from his death in the form of $670,000 in life insurance, clear title to their house and furnishings worth about $500,000, and ownership of a Mercedes and a BMW. In addition, she knew that the high income from Henry's business to which she had become accustomed was about to be drastically reduced. She also knew that Henry planned to divorce her, according to conversations he had with my mother within 48 hours of his death. She failed to report my brother's absence the night or morning after he was killed, and I never saw her express the faintest sign of grief, remorse, or concern for anyone other than herself in the week following the shooting. She admitted to me that she spoke to John Fitzpatrick on the phone before turning the call over to Henry just before he left their house the evening of the murder. I realize this circumstantial evidence speaks only to possible motive, but I feel obliged to mention it.

If there is anything I can do to facilitate your investigation and prosecution of John Fitzpatrick, please call upon me. My office phone, e-mail address, and fax numbers are attached.

Sincerely yours,

[redacted]
